TWO CITY NIMRODS ARE READY—Harry Crouse, 126 Ford street (left), and Norman E. Hildebrand, 398 South Diamond street, are two of an estimated 3,900 Richland county hunters who took to the woods and fields at noon today in search of the often times elusive pheasant and rabbit. Legal hunting hours, beginning tomorrow, are from 7:30 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. Many city and county hunters went to northwestern Ohio today, but those who tramp the home fields should find good hunting, according to C. I. Kimmel, county game protector. He reported a fair but spotty crop of both pheasants and rabbits. The legal limit, he warned, was two pheasants and no more than four rabbits in possession at one time.—(News-Journal staff photo)

SIX-POINT PLAN TO END TEACHER SHORTAGE URGED

Greater State Aid and Higher Salaries Recommended.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Six recommendations for ending Ohio's shortage of public school teachers and for improving instructor standards were offered today to the state education department's committee on teacher recruitment.

The six point program was drafted by a sub-committee at a session to which representatives of 24 state-wide organizations were invited by State Education Director Clyde Hissong.

The sub-committee recommended:

Sufficient increase of state support to enable weak or additional aid school districts to guarantee teachers an average salary of $2,000 or more.

"Enforcement of the established state policy that teachers be required to have a four-year provisional certificate or better."

Continuation of the rehabilitation program with funds approximating $5,000,000 for the biennium rather than the present totally inadequate $2,000,000."

Urge Student Loans.

A better school district organization including the attainment of a full, 12-year program in every school district.

"That all universities and colleges give first priority in admissions to students who declare their intention to complete a program of teacher training.

That consideration be given to the idea of having the state offer scholarships and student loans designed to recruit students into preparation for the teaching profession."

Ohio Must Pay More.

The report pointed out that the average teacher salary for the year 1945-46 was $2,010.

It added that recent salary increases were insufficient to keep pace with the rising cost of living with the result that teachers were drifting into other occupations.

The sub-committee expressed belief that the remedy did not rest in more and bigger local-voted levies.

"We are of the opinion," the report stated, "that the spirit of the foundation school program must be applied through increased state support to the weak school districts."

BANDSMEN WEAR NEW UNIFORMS

Decked out in brand new orange and blue uniforms, the John Simpson junior high band presented a program of favorite band airs and semi-classical selections before the meeting of the John Simpson Music Booster club last night.

Appreciation for the new uniforms, purchased by the Booster club, was expressed by James Cook, band president, who was introduced by Jack Dillon, acting master of ceremonies.

Miss Gladys Arnholt, instrumental instructor at Simpson, presented the band. C. L. Green, Booster club president, presided.

Musical selections played by the band, included: "Valley Forge," "Alamo" and "Rough Riders." Solo selections were presented by Mary Alice Laser, John Damron, Herbert Kronenfield, Charles Green, John Damron, Dave Speck and Richard Herold.

In December, the Music Booster club will join with the John Simpson PTA in a Christmas program in the school auditorium.

Crisp Weather Greets Hunters Opening Day

Hundreds of Mansfield and Richland county hunters piled into their automobiles in the frosty air of early morning today, bound for the hunting areas of northwestern Ohio while some waited until noon to hunt nearer home.

Ranging from young ex-servicemen who not many months ago had returned from a far grimmer sport to 89-year-old Charles F. Ackerman, Mansfield banker, the hunters were prepared to fire the first shot opening the hunting season at noon.

Throughout the morning carloads of hunters were seen driving out the highway arteries of Mansfield leading to the north and west.

Ackerman, president of the Mansfield Savings Trust National bank, who tomorrow observes his 89th birthday, left early with Dale Kaylor, George Garrison and Avery Hand jr., bank associates.

The venerable banker who seldom misses the opening of Ohio's hunting season, said he'd return to his desk tomorrow.

Despite shortages of shells and other hunting equipment, an unprecedented number of hunters are expected to seek their bag limits this year.

License Sales Up

Hardware and sporting goods stores reported heavy increases in sales of hunting licenses, while the State Conservation department estimated 75,000 licenses will be sold in the state this year.

Legal hours for hunting today are from 12 noon to 5:30 p. m., and then daily except Sunday from 7:30 to 5:30 p. m. until the season closes.

The pheasant season closes on Nov. 30. Rabbits are fair game until the last day of the year.

While a large number of hunters are expected to tramp through the fields of northwestern Ohio in search of pheasants, there's good hunting in Richland county, too.

The Richland County Fish and Game Protective association said between 1,500 and 1,600 pheasants were distributed in the county last summer.

The bag limit on rabbits of four a day is the same as last year, but the possession limit has been reduced to four. On pheasants, the daily limit is two cock birds, and the possession limit also is two.

The conservation department warned that the reduced possession limits mean that if a hunter shoots his limit of four rabbits and two cock pheasants, he can't kill another rabbit or pheasant the second day unless he uses up a like number of those already on hand.

It attributed the reduced possession limit to a "critical period" facing wildlife because of several cold and wet spring seasons, and the anticipated increased number of hunters.

PRESIDENT STUDIES COAL STRIKE THREAT

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The White House disclosed today that President Truman has been in consultation with his coal mine administrator as John L. Lewis prepared his answer to the question:

Will there be another crippling soft coal strike?

Presidential Secretary Eben Ayers told reporters that Secretary of the Interior Krug conferred with Mr. Truman at the White House for "a few minutes" yesterday and saw him again today at the regular cabinet meeting.

State Patrol Marks 13th Anniversary

Mansfield's all-veteran State Highway Patrol staff joined with the state organization today in celebrating the patrol's 13th anniversary.

On Nov. 15, 1933, 60 men were sworn in as patrolmen on a snow-covered drill field at Camp Perry after five weeks of training under the supervision of the Pennsylvania State police.

Around midnight of the same day, Mansfield welcomed its first patrol station as four men set up headquarters in what was then the M. L. Black residence at 686 Lexington avenue.

Mrs. Black, who now resides with her husband at 129 Western avenue, recalls the arrival on "a very bitter cold night."

In May, 1935, the original 60-man Ohio force was doubled, and in 1937 it reached 200. Today the force numbers 287 men, scattered throughout the state's 31 posts.

From a four-man force, the Mansfield station grew to a six-man outfit in 1940. An addition of the seventh man, who is scheduled to arrive the first of the

Blames Clogged Pipe for Blast

BARODA, Mich.—(INS)—Investigators believed today that a clogged pipe in the hot water heating system was responsible for an explosion that wrecked part of the Baroda consolidated school, killing one student and injuring 17.

The theory on Wednesday's blast was advanced by Fire Chief Ray Hall of Benton Harbor, Mich., after an examination of the shattered 365-gallon boiler tank.

WORKERS LINK STRIKE OF 250 TO VET OUSTER

Humphryes Employes Leave Jobs in Protest; Sympathy Walkout Threatens.

Alleged firing of a war veteran and a union steward at the Humphryes Manufacturing company last Tuesday was blamed today for a walkout of some 250 production workers at the plant.

The work stoppage, called a "lockout" by officials of Local 758, United Electrical Workers (CIO), also threatened to spill over into sympathy walkouts at several other Mansfield plants, the News-Journal learned.

Forest Payne, business agent of Local 758, said the work stoppage at Humphryes resulted from a "lockout." "The company refused to bargain in good faith after the firing of the two men. This is not a strike," he said.

He would make no comment on the possibility of the Humphryes dispute spreading to sympathy walkouts at other Mansfield factories, but rank and file members of the union said that workers at the Westinghouse plant, the Ohio Brass company, the Ideal Electric Manufacturing company, and the Martin Steel Products company may leave their jobs to aid the Humphryes members of the union in picketing.

Whether their presence on the picket line, which numbered only a handful of men at noon today, would interrupt production at the other plants was not clear.

Asked For Pay Raise.

Payne said that the veteran, an electrical maintenance worker, was fired after his "bosses rode him because he had asked for a pay raise."

"The union steward asked company officials to negotiate over the firing of the veteran, but they refused and fired the steward too. As far as we're concerned it's a lockout," Payne said.

A report that the steward is the father of the veteran was confirmed by Payne who said it was "only a coincidence."

"The steward was the regularly elected union representative to handle the veteran's grievance," Payne said.

Company officials declined to comment today.

AIRLINE PILOTS RETURN TO JOBS

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The Trans World Airline Pilots' strike—the nation's first major walkout of commercial fliers—ended today with an agreement to submit the dispute over pay and working rules to arbitration.

Paul E. Richter, executive vice president of TWA, and David L. Behncke of the AFL pilots union signed the agreement at 5:12 a. m. (EST) in the office of Chairman Frank P. Douglass of the national mediation board. Nearly nine hours of continuous conferences over the final wording preceding the signing.

TWA said it expects to put its first planes into the air about 7 a. m. local time Saturday, with transcontinental flights starting from both coasts.

The walkout of approximately 1,000 pilots began October 21 over demands for higher pay for pilots and copilots of four-engine planes. It grounded 115 aircraft along most of the company's 28,000 miles of route on three continents, threw nearly 15,000 non-flying employes out of work and cut off $2,000,000 in weekly revenue to the company.

While initial flights will begin tomorrow, at least two weeks will be required to restore the line's full schedule.

Embezzler Wants Parole to Accept Penitentiary Job

PHILADELPHIA —(INS)— William O. Sahm, jr., is one convict who wants out so he can get in.

Sahm, who is serving a 10 to 20 years term in eastern penitentiary for embezzlement of $307,000, has asked for a parole so he can accept a job as bookkeeper at the prison.

His basic salary as prison bookkeeper would be $2,350 annually.

Sahm was head bookkeeper at the Northern Bank & Trust Co., Lancaster, Pa., when he was convicted.

In his parole application, Sahm said he intended to find room and board "outside the prison" if he was released and allowed to take the job as prison bookkeeper.

Vet Accused Of Wearing Suit Too Long

A Mansfield navy veteran who wanted to keep right on wearing his sailor uniform was in trouble with the FBI today. He may be in trouble with law on a lot of other counts, too, officers said.

FBI Agent Robert Pumphrey said the 20-year-old vet will be taken before a U. S. Commissioner at Canton or Cleveland tomorrow to answer to a charge of illegal wearing of a military uniform.

Months after his discharge, the vet wore his gob's uniform—illegally—and, for a change of pace, alternated with the garb of a reformatory guard, officers said. He was a guard at the OSR for a time.

In addition, officers said they found in his sea bag, which was jam-packed with navy clothing, the discharge papers of a Mansfield army veteran and the draft card of a Virginia man.

Discharged Last Winter.

The youth's navy records show that he was discharged in February. Regulations permit him to wear his uniform 30 days after discharge—except on special occasions.

His records further show that his home town is Henderson, N. C., that he was honorably discharged and that he saw no overseas service.

When he was arrested last night at the Southern hotel where he was rooming he was wearing the uniform of an aviation ordinance man, first class, four grades above his own former navy rating.

His arrest came about, navy officials here said, when Anton Maurer, 276 Grace street, a tailor at the OSR, reported to the officials that the youth had failed to pay for a guard uniform owned by Maurer.

Chief J. T. Daley, head of the Mansfield navy recruiting office, who reported the youth to police when he learned that he was carrying no leave papers, said he had seen him in uniform on one other occasion.

A resident of Mansfield for about two months, the youth was reported by police to have worked at the Westinghouse plant and two restaurants in addition to being employed at the reformatory as a guard.

The discharge papers in the man's possession were those of Malcolm Hartley, News-Journal telegraph editor. Hartley told Agent Pumphrey that the papers were in a coat which was either lost or stolen in September. The man said he "found" the papers, Pumphrey said.

House Steering Committee Presents Program for 20 Per Cent Slash.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Congressional Republicans swung an axe at taxes today but ran into opposition from their own and Democratic ranks to any revenue slashes not paired with even deeper cuts in spending.

Members of the house Republican steering committee, eager to get their party's hands on legislative controls for the first time in 14 years, laid before senate colleagues a quickly assembled program to take a 20 per cent slice off individual income taxes. Changes in business levies would await detailed study.

Acting while the senators mostly talked—among other things about how to block Democratic Senator Theodore G. Bilbo of Mississippi from taking his seat—the house group went down the line for:

1. Limitation to eight years the tenure of future presidents.
2. "Constructive" labor legislation.
3. An end to war powers.
4. Relief from soap, oils and food shortages and,
5. "Substantial savings" in government costs.

The house members supported their 20 per cent tax cut proposal with a formal assertion that it could be achieved "while at the same time the current budget can be balanced and payments begun on the national debt."

Chairman Robert A. Taft of Ohio, who led the senate group into its second day of discussion, said he agreed that it could be done and that the federal budget could be pared to $30,000,000,000 next year—$11,000,000,000 less than this year's budget.

But Senator-elect John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky, one of the "freshmen" who will give the Republicans control of the senate, told a reporter he thought taxes must be maintained at their present level to give the treasury a chance of making payments on the debt.

Voices Warning.

And Senator Homer Capehart (R., Ind.) declared he hoped his colleagues don't go off "half cocked" in their efforts to bring relief to the taxpayers.

Capehart, who contends he represents the viewpoint of the average business man, said he wanted subsidies abolished and 70,000 federal workers cut off the payrolls before the final decision is made on how much to lower levels.

Senator Allen Ellender (D., La.) volunteered that he and other southerners of like views would give enthusiastic support to any "reasonable" Republican move to bring the government's expenses down.

Demands Proof.

"But they are going to have to show me that it is justified before I will vote to reduce taxes," Ellender told newsmen. "We had better start paying off the national debt while we can."

In putting labor legislation on their slate for action, the house Republicans asserted:

"The committee was in full agreement that labor legislation which will be constructive, but emphatically not punitive, is an early necessity in the 80th congress. The first consideration must be the welfare of the whole nation, which will necessarily embrace the welfare of both labor and management."

The senate committee agreed with the house group that the congressional reorganization plan must go through as the 79th congress approved it, with fewer committees but higher pay and pensions for the lawmakers.

SOVIET LAWYERS FACE 'CLEANUP'

MOSCOW — (UP) — Izvestia announced today the dissolution of the central organization of Moscow's 1,000 attorneys for failure to correct "grafting and other amoral acts stemming from the almost complete absence of ideological-political work" among them.

The presidium of the Moscow collegium of attorneys was the body which the government newspaper said had been dissolved. A collegium organizational bureau was established to work out a new presidium.

The president of the presidium, Sannikov, and one of its members, Nekhamkin, were singled out specifically for reprimands.

Izvestia said that among the Moscow attorneys were "many who possess very vague ideas on Soviet legislation."

"In the race after honorariums, attorneys sometimes make unjustified complaints in the name of their clients, giving the convicted unjustified hopes of revision of their just sentences and demanding extra payment above the fixed price for writing complaints or appearing in court," Izvestia said.

The published reports said the presidium was two-faced in calling for a fight against grafting, but at the same time permitting a "family-like atmosphere that led to the covering up of facts."

BRITISH LABOR PARTY REBELS DEMAND DEBATE

Government Leaders Accept Challenge.

LONDON—(UP)—The labor government today accepted the challenge of left-wing rebels and agreed to a full dress debate in the house of commons on whether Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin's foreign policy involves an ultimate threat of war between the United States and Russia.

After considerable hesitation the government announced that a debate will be held Monday on the question posed by the rebel group.

The rebel resolution calls for "a socialist alternative" to the present foreign policy which is alleged to carry the threat of eventual war between the west and the east.

Group Lacks Power.

The rebel parliamentary group has the support of something more than 50 members—considerably too few to upset the government but large enough to constitute a challenge to the cabinet.

The government also agreed to a debate on a second challenge to its policy—a dissent from the program of peace-time conscription. This dissent has the support of a smaller group of laborites, estimated at 15 to 20.

The rebel bloc was expected to attack the government foreign policy in blunt terms, similar to those employed in last night's debate in which the United States was accused of "aggressive economic imperialism" and to pursuing policies which will lead to an economic slump within the next eighteen months.

It was still doubted whether the rebel group would carry the attack on the government to the point of forcing a vote on their proposal.

A vote against the government probably would bring down on the rebels severe party discipline—possibly expulsion from the labor party.

The exact number of members of parliament participating in the revolt was constantly shifting as some members who signed the petition withdrew their names and others attached theirs to it.

The original group numbered 57 but it was estimated that as many as 70 laborites and possibly more were sympathetic to the critics' program.

RE-VAMPS BUS ROUTES SUNDAY

Re-routing of South Main street buses and discontinuance of service on Edgewood and Andover roads and Chevy Chase, effective Sunday, was announced today by the Mansfield Rapid Transit, Inc.

The new route will continue south on Lexington avenue to Sunset boulevard, turn at Sunset, then north on Lexington to Beechwood drive, east to Sunset, north to Cook road, west to Lexington avenue and Cook road. The bus then continues its regular route inbound from Lexington avenue and Cook road.

The new routing is on a trial basis, the company said, and its continuance will depend on patronage.

On week days, buses will leave Sunset boulevard and Lexington at 5:20 and 5:35 a. m., and every 20 minutes thereafter until 6:35 p. m. The buses will operate on a 30-minute schedule until the last bus leaves Sunset boulevard at 11:05 p. m.

Sunday and holiday schedule calls for 7:10 and 7:35 a. m. buses, with a 30-minute schedule until the last bus at 11:05 p. m.

Stores Here Quote Lower Prices for Meat As U. S. Forecasts January Drop In Food Costs

A government prediction of a drop in food prices, come January, cast its shadow before in Mansfield today.

Grocery stores in the city advertised prices for meat that in numerous cases were several cents lower than a week ago, when a slight drop was shown from the week before.

Prices for most other foodstuffs appeared on the basis of advertisements in the News-Journal, to be about on the level of last week.

Butter was offered at 81 cents a pound and up, depending on brand.

Prices Compared.

Comparative prices on meats included: sirloin grade A, 57 cents against 63 a week ago, grade B 43 against 47; chuck roast, 42 and 45 for grade A, 39 both weeks for grade B; short ribs, grade A, 33 and 35, B, 30 and 32; rib roast, grade A, 49 and 55; grade B, 39 and 43; veal roast, grade A, 35 and 39; grade B, 30 and 35; hamburger, 37 and 39.

At another store, chuck roast was offered at 39 compared to 45; ground beef, 35 against 45; pork chops, 55 against 65.

A third store showed prices even except for pork loin, which dropped from 53 to 49, while a fourth showed no change, except for hamburger, down from 32 to 31, and hams, up from 58 to 61.

56 Per Cent Up From June.

In Washington, the United Press reported, government officials reported food costs had increased 56 per cent since June 28 but predicted that most prices would begin dropping in early January.

An OPA official said the average rise in all prices since June 28 is 45 per cent, taking in a 38 per cent boost in the price of industrial raw materials.

For the first two business days following President Truman's decontrol order last Saturday, there was an average price increase of about 7.5 per cent. Food prices rose one per cent, while industrial raw materials were up more than 12 per cent, the OPA said.

One government economist forecast a general drop in prices soon after the holidays. He said it would affect virtually all items except clothing and automobiles and possibly building materials. The economist, who asked that his name be withheld, said the trend would not be merely a leveling off but "a positive setback."

"Industry is pricing itself out of the market," he said. "The break is bound to come soon."

It appeared definite meanwhile that OPA will have no hand in deciding whether there is to be a 15 per cent general rent increase as requested by its rent industry advisory committee.

New Agency to Replace OPA.

Informed quarters said that within the next week President Truman will issue an executive order setting up a new agency to absorb OPA, the Civilian Production Administration and the Office of Contract Settlement. OPA, it was said, plans no action on the rent boost request before the new agency is established.

Higher rents were considered almost certain in view of Mr. Truman's statement that rent readjustments are necessary. It was not known, however, whether the president favored an across-the-board increase or individual adjustments.

17,500 to Be Fired.

OPA, moving ahead with its liquidation plans, announced that 17,500 employes will be given 30-day notices on Nov. 30, and that its 64 district offices will be closed on Dec. 1.

At the same time the agency announced that it will open 64 new sugar branch offices and 25 new branch enforcement offices on Dec. 1 in the same cities and offices where the district offices have been maintained. Its 650 area rent offices will remain in operation.

The new sugar offices will handle sugar rationing and price problems for consumers and commercial users. The eight regional offices will continue to handle rations for industrial and institutional users.

SHARP WEATHER HEADED FOR OHIO

If it wasn't chilly enough for you this morning, the weatherman says he can do something about it soon.

Weather bureau forecasters said today that Mansfield and vicinity may be in for its first taste of winter by the first of the week.

The warning was predicated on a mass of very cold air sighted 1,400 miles away in northern Alberta. Forecasters said the cold was moving in a southeasterly direction and probably would reach Ohio by Monday.

The temperature fell to 32 today at Hayesville, but some Mansfield thermometers showed below-30 readings. Fair and crisp weather was forecast for tomorrow.

Yule Club Members to Receive $270,500

4,250 IN CITY TO GET CHECKS ABOUT DEC. 1

Funds to Swell Holiday Gift Buying; Savings Average $63.64 Per Subscriber.

With purses padded by a year's savings, Mansfield members of the Christmas club are expected to set off the annual Yule season buying rush at the city's stores within a fortnight.

So far, a total of $270,500 has been accumulated at the four local banks by 4,250 Mansfielders, who will receive their savings checks on or near Dec. 1.

An average savings and potential spending by each of the thrifty ones is expected to approximate $63.64.

Although the total savings are $24,500 behind last year's savings of $295,000, Mansfield banks reported that all savings have not as yet been closed and that several hundred more dollars are expected to enter the coffers before the checks are mailed.

Weekly Deposits.

The funds represent deposits made each week during the year. Three Mansfield banks reported an increase in the amounts of Christmas Club accounts this year, while the fourth reported its account somewhat lower than last years.

Over the nation, total distribution of Christmas Club holdings is 15.7 per cent ahead of last year with a total of $635,000,000—all time high for the 36 years of club operation. Ohio's total savings was $28,000,000.

A cross-section survey made by the National Christmas Club of New York indicated that 32 per cent of the Christmas money would be returned to permanent savings and that the same percentage would be spent on Christmas gifts.

Average Is $100.

Average per-member distribution will be around $100 in large metropolitan areas. Distribution for the entire country will average $76 as compared with $72 last year.

The remaining 36 per cent of the savings will be divided into 12 per cent for insurance premiums, seven per cent for debt retirement, seven per cent for year-end bills and 10 per cent for taxes.

THERE ARE business doubles which should be taken out by the doubler's partner without worrying about the temporary discomfiture of the man across the table. If you have a hand which is a lot worse on the defense than you had led your partner to expect, and know you cannot deliver the number of tricks he probably is counting on, you know his double is likely to present the opponents a gift of some hundreds of points. In such a case, it is better to bid and take a set yourself.

North opened the bidding on this deal because he had plenty of playing tricks at spades and did not intend to let the opponents get a vulnerable game. If he couldn't obstruct them out of bidding it, he would sacrifice if necessary. His one questionable act was his neglect to bid 5-Spades at once over West's 5-Clubs, but after he had passed that and his partner doubled, he felt compelled to make the sacrifice call.

South was furious at his partner, since he had so much strength in the opponents' red side suits, and kept glaring across from his dummy's position as the 5-Spades doubled got set three tricks. East led his diamond to the A. West returned it for a ruff, a club to the A put West in to lead for a second diamond ruff, and the heart A made the fifth trick for the defense.

"Down three for 500 points!" exclaimed South. Then came the post-mortem, which showed that North and South had not an earthly chance to beat the 5-Clubs, which might even have produced an extra trick because of the unbalance of the two red side suits South then realized that North saved his side a lot of points by taking out the double.

Try and Stop Me

FIBBER McGEE claims he's been getting laughs for twenty years with the story of the hillbilly wife whose consuming passion was jealousy for her handsome husband.

In an attic one day she came across the first mirror she ever had seen. She peered into it, shook her head, and muttered, "So that's the ugly old hag he's been running around with."

A Georgia farmer told his hired hand to drive into town for some supplies, raged when he showed up a full hour later than he should have. "No, sir! I warn't wastin' time at the saloon at all," the hired hand protested. "It's just that I picked up Parson Abernathy down the road about three miles and from then on them pesky mules couldn't understand a word I said."

Two partners took a day off to shoot a round of golf. On the third tee, one partner suddenly exclaimed, "My God, I think I forgot to lock the cash box." "So what?" said the other. "We're both here, ain't we."

CHURCH SETS RELIEF QUOTA

A quota of $12,538 for the Park Avenue Baptist church in a world reconstruction and rehabilitation mission was set last night at a meeting at the church.

Approximately 85 persons who attended the supper meeting also heard Rev. Ben Topalian speak on his experiences as an Armenian refugee child during World War I.

The relief campaign, which will be held during December, will be participated in by the Park Avenue church and churches in Marion and Mt. Vernon.

An area meeting will be held here next Wednesday, and a three-city rally will be held at Marion on Dec. 5.

Funds raised in the Mansfield area will go toward a world mission crusade of the Northern Baptist convention. Purpose of the crusade is to rehabilitate mission hospitals, schools and churches damaged or destroyed during the war.

More About Rose Bowl Muddle

By CARLES EINSTEIN

CHICAGO — (INS) — A Rose Bowl bid to Army will sever almost automatically the exising long-term Rose Bowl negotiations between the Pacific Coast conference and the Big Nine.

It was learned authoritatively today that although no official invitation has yet been issued by the Rose Bowl committee of the Pacific Coast conference, the Big Nine will go to the Rose Bowl this year, or, in all probability, not at all.

Pacific Coast conference officials will meet with representatives of the Big Nine at Berkeley, Cal., on Tuesday of next week.

The coast league is holding up its Rose Bowl invitation in hopes of striking a negotiatory snag with the Big Nine as a result of which the Rose Bowlers could have their cake and eat it too.

The coasters would love to have Army this year and the Big Nine thereafter, and their ardent attitude has been heightened by indications of Army's willingness to appear in the Rose Bowl on Jan. 1 should the invitation be forthcoming.

But reports that the Big Nine would be willing to step aside this year and take a rain check in favor of Army today were branded as completely false by a reputable source close to inter-conference negotiations.

On the contrary, it is known that the Western conference would feel snubbed if the coast league issued an invitation to Army (or anybody else), and would almost certainly balk off the infant alliance between the Pacific Coast and Big Nine.

If, however, negotiations between the Pacific Coast schools and the Big Nine at Tuesday's meeting should reach a point where the assembled Western conference moguls feel they would like "more time," then the Rose Bowl committee could take advantage of the time element and issue its invitation to Army or someone else.

As an example, suppose the coast conference asks for a ten-year Rose Bowl bond with the Big Nine, instead of the five-year plan recently okayed by Western conference schools.

Such a proposal might prompt Big Nine Commissioner Kenneth L. "Tug" Wilson to poll his member schools again. The time it takes to do this would "force" the Pacific Coast conference to look elsewhere for this year's Rose Bowl guest—and invite Army.

If no such negotiatory snag is met during the Pacific Coast-Big Nine meetings, the coasters' course will be only too clear:

Invite Army and lose the Big Nine for future Rose Bowl games—or invite the Big Nine—period.

Lincoln Protests McKinley Action

Canton Lincoln boosters club tossed a bombshell into the Canton high school picture last night by charging that students from the Lincoln high school district are being lured to McKinley high school for athletic purposes.

In a signed statement, members of the adult group declared that Lincoln would find itself on an unequal basis with McKinley as long as players from the Lincoln district wind up on McKinley sport squads.

The issue came to a head recently when Canton McKinley booster club members asserted used an ineligible player against the Lincoln team during this season's contest between the two clubs. Booster club members said the player in question resided in the Lincoln district but is attending a special class at McKinley.

"We understand that the authorities at Lincoln did not file an official protest because in addition to the game being forfeited the boy in question would have been barred from further participation in high school athletics through no fault of his own," the committee declared.

"We claim each high school is entitled to these of athletes from its district and a square deal from our school officials, which, up to the present the Lincoln has not been receiving"

Mansfield Concludes Good Year

By FRED THARP
(News-Journal Sports Editor)

Eighteen Mansfield Senior high football players will pull on their moleskins for the last time in a high school gridiron contest tonight at Martins Ferry.

The Tygers of Coach Paul Snyder will be concluding their highly successful 1946 campaign against the unpredictable Purple Riders. Mansfield has annexed six victories against one defeat and two ties. The Martins Ferry club has won four, lost four and tied one.

Snyder's entire starting line-up will face its last high school starting whistle. Only Kenny Horvath and Tom Nixon of the 1945 lettermen will be absent. Injuries have kept Nixon sidelined all season while Horvath suffered a broken leg in practice three weeks ago.

Ollie Cline will be rounding out three years of clever pigskin manipulation as he works under the T. The other starters who will bow out of schoolboy competition are: Al Henke and Jim Sinerson, ends; Dave Boals and Bob Rondy, tackles; Dave Richards and Dick Gross, guards; Dave Wentz, center; Ross Frisbee, Bill McKee and Ralph Majors, backs.

Tom Emerson, center; Bruno Mollica, guard; Harold Amsbaugh, end, and Ray Beard and Bob Marth, tackles, are other "vets" due for their last fling. Marth is only a junior but will have passed the age limit before the 1947 campaign rolls around. He served in the marines.

The other duo of seniors are Dick Flockencier, end, and Allen Sowash, back.

Snyder and the 30-man squad left for Martins Ferry this morning at 9:30. They will go to the McClure hotel in Wheeling and grab a bit of rest and have their ankles taped before re-crossing the Ohio river for the game at 8 p. m.

Mansfield will stay overnight in Wheeling and leave for home at 7:30 a. m. Saturday.

Snyder's big outfit rates as one to two touchdown favorites over Ferry but anything can happen. The Riders have lost games that they should have won and have tripped elevens that they weren't given a ghost of a chance of beating.

One thing, though, the Martins Ferry club boasts a defense that has shown just about as much stuff as the Tygers. The Riders have permitted 67 points but their impotent offense has accounted for only 76 markers. No team has scored more than two TD's on Coach Fred Thomas' team.

Mansfield has notched 167 points to its opponents' 78.

In addition to the performers playing their last game, the Bengal traveling squad includes:

End, Bernie Weaver; tackles, Dick Logan and Bert Lindsay; guards, LeRoy Douville and Al Paetsch; centers, Tom McCullough and John McCarrick; backs, Joe Miller, Nick Gagich, Harry Osbun, Dick Zeigler, Carl Letizia.

Suggest Mansfield For Baseball Loop

Mansfield has been proposed as one of 16 Ohio cities to compose two Ohio State non-professional baseball leagues to operate in 1947.

The National Baseball Congress, at a meeting in Witchita, Kan., yesterday, announced that the two leagues would be organized at a meeting in Akron on February 2, under the direction of John Belnicks.

Lima, Canton, Akron, Columbus, Toledo, Zanesville, Springfield, Warren, Dayton, Sandusky, Lorain, Steubenville, Elyria, Marion, and Hamilton are the other teams suggested for the two baseball loops.

Cleveland Brown Gridders Set To Give Fans Taste of Victory

By ADE PONIKVAR

CLEVELAND—(INS)—The Cleveland Browns were all set today to give the home folks another sample of winning football when they face the Chicago Rockets in the stadium Sunday.

The Browns dropped their first game of the season to the San Francisco 49er's in this same stadium three weeks ago. After traveling to Los Angeles and losing another game the following week, the Clevelanders bounced back to edge the 49er's, 14 to 7, last Sunday.

However, all is not sunshine in the Browns' camp this week. Marion Motley, crashing fullback from Canton, is still nursing a pulled thigh muscle and may not appear in Sunday's tilt. Motley is second to Orban "Spec" Sanders of the New York Yankees in the All-America conference rushing department.

Bill Lund, former Case ace who recently has been doing a stellar job of running for the Browns, has been sidelined with a sprained ankle but probably will see action against the Chicagoans.

The Rockets will be led by their "4-H club." This consists of Bob "Hunchy" Hoernschemeyer and Billy Hillenbrand, former Indiana aces, Elroy "Crazy Legs" Hirsch, former Wisconsin and Michigan great, and Ralph Heywood, former star end with Southern California and the El Toro Marines. All four were All-Americans.

Statistically, the Browns and Rockets are fairly evenly-matched. Cleveland has averaged 276.4 total yards gained per game while Chicago has netted 264.1 yards. Defensively, the Browns have held the opposition to 223.6 yards while the Rockets have yielded 232.

Coach Paul Brown revealed that he would call on Ray Terrell, former Mississippi back, to start at right half. Terrell was in the opening lineup last week against the 49er's and did a great job.

Don Greenwood, who started the season as the Browns' number one right halfback, has been plagued with injuries and has dropped in weight from 199 when the season began to 176 today.

Bill Tilden Eliminated By Bob Harmon, 6-0, 6-1

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — Bill Tilden, the old tennis trouper, was missing today from the $5,000 world professional hard court championships. He was eliminated yesterday by Bob Harmon, Los Angeles, 6-0, 6-1 after he defeated Frank Josephs, San Diego, 6-2, 6-4.

Defending champion Bobby Riggs, who had a first round bye, defeated Jess Millman, Los Angeles, 6-1, 6-1.

Eagles at Full Strength for Albion Game

ASHLAND — Ashland college will be a full strength for the first time this season when the Eagles ring down their 1946 grid curtain at Albion, Mich., Saturday.

Kenny Funk, all-Ohio halfback in 1945, and Bob Puglisi, bruising fullback, will be starting for the first time in three weeks. Jimmy Shull and Leo Strang will complete the backfield for the Eagles.

Chuck Bartley, who has been shelved due to the flu will start at end. Bartley has proven himself an excellent pass-snatcher so possibly Coach George Donges plans on taking to the air in hopes of stopping the Eagles non-winning slump.

Bob Picking will be at the other end with Dick McMullen, of Mansfield and Elmer Klaus, tackles; Dick Welch and Dick Patterson, guards; and Larry Etzwiler at center. Ashland has lost its last three games.

Anderson Nips Jeeps

TOLEDO — (UP) — A well-rounded offensive team from Anderson, Ind., defeated the Toledo Jeeps last night, 51 to 50, in a national basketball league game. Guard Howie Schultz was high scorer for Anderson with 14 points while Toledo's George Sobek was top individual performer with 22.

CRUCIAL CONTESTS FACE BIG 9 TEAMS

By TOMMY DEVINE

CHICAGO—(UP)—The bewildering Western conference football race reaches the "now-or-never" stage for three outstanding title contenders in crucial games tomorrow.

The headline contest sends Illinois, the pre-season favorite and the current leader, against Ohio State at Champaign, with Michigan entertaining Wisconsin at Ann Arbor in the secondary feature. The third league encounter pits Iowa against Minnesota at Minneapolis.

In a non-conference game that shares attention with the Big Nine title race, Notre Dame seeks to protect its unbeaten record against Northwestern at South Bend.

Illinois is the current conference pace-maker with four triumphs against a single loss. The proteges of Coach Ray Eliot have beaten Purdue, Wisconsin, Michigan and Iowa, while losing to Indiana by a 14 to 7 margin.

Ohio State is third in the race with two triumphs, a loss and a tie. The Bucks downed Minnesota and Northwestern, lost to Wisconsin and were tied by Purdue.

Illinois stakes its title chances on its ability to overcome a persistent Ohio State jinx. The Illini have not beaten the Bucks in their last 11 annual meeting and only once in the last 16 contests. Illinois' last triumph in the series was in 1934 by a 14 to 13 margin.

Although Illinois never has quite measured up to the lofty pre-season forecasts made for it, the team has been the most consistent combination in the conference. It goes into tomorrow's contest well rested and in top physical peak as the result of an open date a week ago.

Ohio State has the Western conference's finest offensive team, but the Bucks have been an in-and-outer throughout the campaign. Ohio was extended to the limit to edge Pittsburgh 20 to 13 a week ago.

After a mid-season slump following the terrific battle it put up against Army, Michigan has bounced back with two impressive triumphs at the expense of Minnesota and Michigan State.

Notre Dame, still in the running for the mythical national championship, seeks its sixth victory of the season against Northwestern. After a fine early season showing, the Wildcats have slumped badly in recent weeks. Notre Dame holds a wide edge in the series, with 20 victories as against three losses and two ties. Northwestern's last victory over the Irish was in 1940.

Bears Going After Seventh Straight

AKRON —(AP)— Akron's Bears, definitely out of the cub class although still farm hands of the more famous Chicago Bears, seek their seventh victory when they meet the Wilmington, Del. Clippers here Sunday in an American pro football league contest.

After dropping an exhibition game to their Papa Bears and their first two league starts to the Jersey City Giants and the Bethlehem Bulldogs, Coach Gene Ronzani's Bears won five straight to climb from last place to leadership in the league's western division.

BIG FOUR HEAVILY FAVORED TO WIN

Army Rates 13.5 Points Over Penn

NEW YORK —(UP)— The Big Four of collegiate football — Army, Notre Dame, Georgia and UCLA — were heavy favorites today to clean the boards again Saturday as this upset-studded season roars into the final phase with the bowl situation still scrambled.

Army (7-0-1) was quoted as a 13½ point favorite to rebound from its bone-crushing scoreless tie with Notre Dame last week and whip Pennsylvania (5-1) in the game of the week at Philadelphia and that was the smallest point "spot" for any of the Big Four.

Notre Dame (5-0-1) was a 19 point favorite over Northwestern (4-2-1), Georgia (7-0) rated a 33 point margin over Auburn (3-4) and UCLA (7-0) figured over Montana (4-2) so heavily the odds weren't even quoted.

Illinois (5-2) is host to Ohio State (11-2) in the Big Nine headliner and was a six point favorite to retain its league lead. Michigan (4-2-1) was held at 14 point over Wisconsin (4-3) and Iowa (5-3) at 12½ points over Minesota (3-4).

Arkansas (5-2-1) was a nine point favorite to whip Southern Methodist (2-4-1) and clinch at least a share of the Southwest conference championship. Texas (7-1) had a 14 point bulge on Texas Christian (1-5-1) and Rice (5-2) was quoted at seven points over Texas A. and M. (4-4).

Tulsa (7-1) was a 13½ point favorite over Baylor (1-5) in a non-conference game and tough little Texas Tech (6-2) rated three points over Oklahoma A. and M. (2-5-1) in a clash of independents.

South Carolina (5-1) and George Washington (1-0) in the Southern conference race, both risk perfect league records against favorites. Duke (3-1) was 13½ points over South Carolina and William and Mary had the same edge over George Washington. In the other major meeting of Southern conference giants, North Carolina (5-1-1) was held at seven points over Wake Forest (5-2).

In the Big Six, Oklahoma (4-3) was a 6½ point favorite to take the lead away from Missouri (5-1), which hasn't lost a conference game.

Challengers in the Southeastern conference have little chance to make up any ground on the flying leaders—Georgia and Tennessee—with Georgia hitting an easy one in Auburn and Tennessee (6-1) up in New England to meet Boston College (5-1) as a seven point favorite.

Georgia Tech (6-1) was a 12 point favorite to hang in the first division against Tulane (3-3) but Alabama (5-3) rated nine points over Vanderbilt (5-2). Louisiana State (6-1), third in the conference, moves outside the league this week and was a 13½ point favorite to defeat Miami (6-1).

Washington (3-3) was 13 points over Oregon (4-2-1), California (2-5) three over Oregon State (4-1-1) and Stanford (3-3-1) 12½ over Washington State (1-4-1).

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— The elimination campaign to determine a June challenger for Joe Louis will begin officially at Madison Square Garden tonight when Jersey Joe Walcott and Elmer (Violent) Ray, outstanding Negro heavyweight contenders, clash in a 10-round bout.

Unholy Alliance?

LOS ANGELES —(U.P.)— A noted football authority today asked sport fans to fight the proposed western conference-Pacific coast conference "unholy alliance" which would give them a monopoly on the annual Rose bowl football classic.

Deke Houlgate, author of "The Football Thesaurus," said the plan advanced by the Big Nine yesterday and almost certain of acceptance by the coast group at a Berkeley, Cal., conference next Tuesday would relegate New Year's day's traditionally top gridiron contest to "just another football game."

Bowling was a religious ceremony during the third and fourth centuries in Germany.

Ted Williams Named Most Valuable Player; Hal Newhouser, Bobby Doerr Trail Sox Star

NEW YORK —(AP)— Ted Williams, Boston Red Sox outfielder, climaxed a brilliant five-year career in the majors today when he was named the most valuable American league player of 1946.

The 28-year-old slugger ,whose lifetime .353 batting average trails only those of Ty Cobb, Rogers Hornsby and Joe Jackson, polled a total of 224 points in the balloting by a 24-man committee of the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

Second place went to Detroit's Hal Newhouser, winner of the award in both 1944 and 1945. The great Tiger lefthanded pitcher, whose 26 victories last season gave him a total of 80 pitching triumphs over a three-year period, received 197 points.

The Red Sox won three of the first four positions. Second Baseman Bobby Doerr, with 158 points, and Shortstop Johnny Pesky with 141, placed third and fourth, respectively.

First Baseman Mickey Vernon of the fourth place Washington Senators, who beat out Williams for the league batting championship with a 353 average to Ted's .343, finished fifth with 134 points.

Bobby Feller, Cleveland's great righthander, who established a season's official strikeout record of 348, and tied Newhouser for the most wins, 26, was the only other player to get more than 100 points. He placed sixth with 105.

Seventh place went to Dave (Boo) Ferriss, the Red Sox sensational sophomore hurler, who followed up his 21-victory freshman year with a record of 25-6 to lead all pitchers in won and lost percentages. Ferriss received 94 points.

Rounding out the first ten were Hank Greenberg, Detroit slugging first baseman and league's home run champion, 91; Dom DiMaggio, Boston's brilliant centerfielder, 56; and Cleveland's manager, shortstop Lou Boudreau, 37.

Eight players received first place votes on the 24 ballots. Williams, who will receive the annual Kenesaw M. Landis plaque, received nine. Doerr received five, Newhouser three, Greenberg and Pesky two each. The remaining three first-place ballots went to Vernon, Feller and Ferriss.

It's really and sensationally different because it's supercharged with a powerful percentage of highly volatile benzol . . . it vaporizes much faster than ordinary gasolines. At way below zero, it's just like Jet Propulsion . . . it gets you going instantly . . . and keeps you going . . . with faster, smoother, surging, knockfree power.

You'll enjoy instant acceleration and power . . . with never a knock, ping or cackle! Top this off with the fact that benzol reduces gum and carbon formation on spark plugs, rings and valves, and you've really got something! Once you try it, you'll always buy it!

—By Thornton W. Burgess

hatterer the Red Squirrel is of the thrifty folks of the en Forest. All the Squirrel are thrifty. Every one knows , and their thrift is much ad-ed. Thrifty folks seldom want things they really need. There ust one trouble with thrift—ometimes, altogether too often, is to greed. Enough is always ugh, but thrift often forgets . Then it becomes greed. ift and greed are too wholly erent things, just as a plant very different thing from the from which it springs. Thrift ays pays. Greed never does. tterer was to find this out. thrift had become greed.

hatterer is fond of mushrooms he is smart enough to have d a way of keeping them for re use. You know a mush-n unpicked lasts only a short . But if picked at the right and dried it will keep a long . Chatterer is smart enough ave found that out and how ry them and store them. He knows his mushrooms, and whenever he finds one that can be properly dried and will be good eating he gathers it and puts it where it will dry properly, usually in a fork in a tree.

While running to one of his storehouses with a fat hickory nut he had spied a fine mushroom. Of course he couldn't carry both at the same time, so he went on with the nut. When he returned some one else had found the mushroom. It was Slowpoke the Box Turtle, who knows a good thing when he sees it. He was calmly eating that mushroom right there where it grew, and there was nothing Chatterer could do about it. He couldn't hurt Slowpoke if he tried, and Slowpoke's sharp-edged jaws could hurt him.

At once he had lost his temper, but all he could do was scold and call names and threaten. He claimed that mushroom was his because he had found it first, but all the time he knew it wasn't his, for the law of the Green Forest is that possession establishes ownership. Slowpoke just went right on eating that mushroom just as if Chatterer were not there.

It was then that thrift became greed. Had he taken that mushroom when he first found it he would have been thrifty. Now that some one else had it, some one who needed it for the present, while he merely wanted it for the future, he wanted it more than ever, and that was pure greed.

Of course, he should have given no more thought to that mushroom but gone about his business of gathering nuts. Apparently he forgot all about those fat hickory nuts. He stayed right there watching Slowpoke eat that mushroom, scolding, making foolish threats and hoping and watching for a chance to rush in and snatch that mushroom.

"The greedy thing!" muttered Peter Rabbit, who had heard that noisy tongue and crept near enough to see what was going on.

Slowpoke moves slowly. He does everything slowly. He ate that mushroom slowly. He refused to be hurried by anything Chatterer could do. At last he had enough, and he is one of those who know when enough is enough. There was a look of pleasant satisfaction in his red eyes as he turned his hea dtoward Chatterer. "It is very good eating. You may have what is left," said he. Then he turned his back to Chatterer and slowly walked away.

There were two pieces left, both small. However, Chatterer could take only one at a time. Peter watched him climb a tree with them and wedge them into a fork of a branch where the wind and the sun together would properly dry them. Not until then did Chatterer think of the tree with the fat nuts he had found earlier that day.

"Now I will gather those nuts before any one else finds them," thought he and raced over to the tree.

When he got there he lost his temper for the second time that day. While he had been wasting time and energy over that mushroom his cousin, Happy Jack the Gray Squirrel, had found that nut tree and had been busy, very busy indeed. He had taken most of the few nuts that tree had borne. Chatterer's greed had cost him a share he might have had.

UNION RIGHT, LEFT WINGERS SET FOR FIGHT

Policy Battle Looms as CIO Prepares to Offer New Wage Demands.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—(UP)—CIO right and left wing factions lined up today for their first test of strength in the resolutions committee amid predictions that President Philip Murray's forces would gain all they demand.

A statement on policy loomed as the most controversial issue but one committee member predicted that even this would win unanimous approval when finally drafted.

Right and left wingers would not comment on the possible introduction of a resolution against communist elements in the CIO. This issue may be dealt with in the constitutional amendments committee later.

Unanimous support was assured for policy declarations attacking the Columbians, Georgia's Anti-Negro organization, and calling for substantial wage increases for the more than 6,000,000 CIO members.

The CIO estimates that real wages have been cut 19 per cent since April 1945 by rising prices and cut-backs in the work week despite last winter's pay boosts. Steel, auto and electrical unions have delayed asking specific cost-of-living wage increases pending formulation of the overall CIO policy declaration on the subject.

Want Annual Wage

A guaranteed annual wage for industrial workers is also expected to receive unanimous support in the committee headed by Van A. Bittner, director of the southern organizing drive and long-time foe of communists.

Preliminary reports from the resolutions, southern organizing and political action committees are due for submission to an afternoon session of the executive board.

EXPLODING GAS INJURES WORKER

Robert Wade, Sixth avenue, an employe of the Mansfield Wrecking and Materials company, Ashland road, suffered minor burns yesterday afternoon when bottled gas in a trailer exploded.

The trailer, which had been re-conditioned by the firm for a rolling office, was parked in front of the company offices when the gas exploded. A stove in the trailer had been lighted shortly before.

A studio coach in the trailer was damaged by the resulting blaze. Wade required no professional medical service, company officials said.

OPPOSE METERS

FOSTORIA—(UP)—Fostoria citizens today had thrown a legal monkey-wrench into city council's plans to install parking meters in the business district here on a 90-day trial basis. Council's plans were halted late yesterday when petitions bearing 1064 signatures were presented asking that a referendum be called on the issue.

PILES ARE NEVER MILD

DANGER IN NEGLECT

No one should ever think of piles (hemorrhoids as a "mild" disorder.

Although they may seem a "mild" ailment, especially when not giving pain or inconvenience, piles are in fact tumor formations without tendency to heal themselves, instead, they are likely, if neglected, to keep increasing in size, involving more and more of the rectal area.

Even a so-called "mild" case may be expected to undermine one's health, by inviting predisposing to or aggravating other ailments, such as: indigestion, biliousness, stomach trouble, constipation, headaches, pain in the back and down the legs, secondary anemia with its run-down tired feeling and general nervous irritability.

Removal of piles is the only permanent relief — written guarantee. My method produces little or no discomfort, does not require the use of knife or drugs, and seldom is the patient required to lose any time from work or other duties.

State Patrol's 13 Years Old

week from the third post-war training school in Columbus, will boost the force to nearly double its original strength. Announcement of the additional patrolman was made today by Cpl. J. L. Bishop, in charge of the station.

Headquarters of the Mansfield station have been changed frequently in the past 13 years. From the Lexington avenue site, the station moved to the Mansfield Reformatory in March of 1934. Staying there but a few months, it was moved to 304 West Fourth street, where it remained until August, 1936. That month the station began a seven-year stay at what is now the Red Cross chapter house at 309 Park avenue west.

Moving day came again in September, 1943, when the station was moved to Ashland road. It was there until Oct. 1 of this year, when officers were obliged to go house hunting again. The station is now located in the George Satterlee residence, approximately two and one-half miles farther out on Ashland road.

One of the few all-veteran posts in the state, the station personnel includes Corp. Bishop, Patrolmen R. H. Opp, C. L. Taylor, S. L. Adomaitis, D. M. Carey, and the lone navy veteran, Patrolman A. E. Hartman.

Eleven patrolmen in Ohio have been killed on duty, nine in highway accidents, and four others lost their lives during military service.

ithor Sees Japan as Friend Of United States In Future

By HAL BOYLE

W YORK—(AP)—Can Japan, ı and prostrate enemy in- al leader of the orient, be- friend and ally of America? s," says John Lacerda, world veteran and roving corres- nt of the Philadelphia Eve- Bulletin.

will shock a good many per- but the stark reality is that ew Japan can become a good and ally of the United ," he said.

e may one day be our first f defense in the atomic war men who despair over the y imperialism of nations fear vitable."

says most Japanese prefer ica to Soviet Russia—as a r.

Gives Year's Summary.

views are contained in one e first and best summaries first year of occupation in —"The Conqueror Comes to Tea," subtitled "Japan Under MacArthur" (published by Rutgers University Press).

It is another of those "correspondent books" which publishers say have flooded the market but which they issue because the correspondents, by and large, are still producing the best word pictures of what is happening abroad.

Lacerdia is a serious bespectacled young man of 34 who has traveled widely and has a gift of condensing and combining intricate political situations and foreign human personal problems in direct and readable prose. He has the reporter's eye—the facility for meeting and writing about "such interesting people"—and he tells about Japan in a way that makes it worthwhile for the ex-soldier who served there as well as the highbrowed people who want to qnow what is behind what is going on there.

He places the future of Japan squarely upon the United States, the country which played the major role in sending it back from swords to flowers.

"It is up to us," he writes. "The Japanese nation is today in a state of flux. The people are bewildered. The teachings and beliefs of centuries are dead or dying. The nation gropes, childlike, for something secure.

Failure Costly.

"If we can successfully shape the clay to the pattern of democracy, we shall not regret the result. If we fail, then Japan will again become a festering sore spot. We appear to be succeeding. Step by step we have been drawing the nation out of the morass of feudalism."

These are perhaps the outstanding conclusions he draws.

The rest of the book is a multi-layered sandwich in which Lacerda in successive chapters lays bare the impact of a conquering white culture upon a proud brown people—in their work, their schools, their beliefs.

He has some scathing statistics on American army carpetbaggers, (they cost the U. S. treasury $8,000,000 a month for a year), white exporters and importers who hope to reap a quick profit from Japan's misery, and native play-with-the-gang-in-power boys who are still doing business at the old stand. This despite the some 2,000 directives issued by the Allies to force the Japanese house into order.

Lacerda is careful to give both sides of the story and makes it clear democracy—and other western ways—will have hard going in Japan. He points out that 90,000 unmarried Japanese women have had babies in the first year of American occupation—and that Jap war veterans don't like it. He doesn't say how the girls feel.

Appraises MacArthur.

Some of his most newsworthy revelations deal with the conflicts between Russian and American officers in Tokyo. He presents perhaps the soundest appraisal yet of MacArthur, a great brave man but also one who is "highly sensitive and egotistical" and who "cannot stand criticism."

He gives a heartening portrayal of how American reporters have fought to get their stories past MacArthur's over-eager press underlings, and an indictment of Japanese newsmen who he feels abuse a victor-given freedom they never had in wartime:

"They write to incite, and their handwriting is purposely blurred."

Lacerda makes no such error. He has no illusions about either Americans or Japanese. He tells how Japan is with the objectivity of a scientist looking through an unprejudiced microscope.

And the pronoun "I" isn't bent on his typewriter.

The book, his second on Japan, is dedicated to his wife "who waited" and to Robert McLean and Dwight S. Perrin, publisher and managing editor of his newspaper, who assigned him to Japan.

STORY OF FDR GETS PRAISE OF BOOK CRITICS

THE ROOSEVELT I KNEW, by Frances Perkins, former secretary of labor, is one of the new books which will be released Monday at the Mansfield public library.

While a number of books have been written about the late president's life this one has received the critics' praise as a human picture of the man who was elected to the nation's highest office four times.

Mrs. Perkins knew President Roosevelt for many years before he was elected in 1932 and held a cabinet post throughout his terms of office. She places emphasis on the social aspects of the New Deal.

NOT SO WILD A DREAM, by Eric Severeid, is the autobiography of a news commentator who saw much of the war close-up. As a reporter he covered the fall of France and the Battle of Britain. Most exciting episode is the plane crash while going "over the hump" from India to China. In addition to being a fine adventure story, this is thoughtful man's commentary on our times.

OUT ON A LIMB, by Louise Baker, is biography of a courageous woman. The author lost a leg in a childhood accident, but she mastered her tragedy and had a whale of a lot of fun doing it She fabricated the most fantastic tales to crush that typical little boy question, "Hey, Lady! Where's your leg?" Whenever the world seemed totally against her, she would console herself with Webster's definition of handicap: "A race in which an artifical disadvantage is imposed on a superior contestant."

Among the other non-fiction works are:

PSYCHOLOGY FOR THE MILLIONS, Sperling; HAPPY THE LAND, Rich; THUNDER OUT OF CHINA, White; TRUMAN SPEAKS, Clemens; GUIDE TO SOUTHERN TREES, Harrar; BLIND ADVENTURE, Fox; BEVIN OF BRITAIN, Evans; SOUND OF HUNTING, Brown, CITIZEN 13660, Okubo.

Followers of Mary O'Hara's wholesome stories of the horse-loving McLaughlin family will want to add GREEN GRASS OF WYOMING to their reading list. The latest addition to the series, which has included MY FRIEND FLICKA and THUNDERHEAD, is among the new fiction arrivals

In GREEN GRASS OF WYOMING, Ken, the dreamy little boy who wanted a colt, is growing up He realizes this himself when he finds that the lovely young owner of his favorite horse is capturing his interest and affection.

A book of timely interest in the collection is THIEVES IN THE NIGHT by Arthur Koestler — a novel of the unrest in Palestine. It is a story of a group of Jewish immigrants who founded a colony there between 1937 and 1939. It's the story of Joseph, half Jew, half Englishman, how he falls in love with Dina, how he marries Ellen, and how gradually disillusioned, he decides to identify himself with a secret terrorist organization seeking justice by force of arms.

TOIL OF THE BRAVE, by Inglis Fletcher, is a new novel in the grand series of historical novels laid in the Albemarle district of North Carolina. The time is 1779 and the climax of the action is the battle of King's Mountain. The leading figure is Capt. Peter Huntly, staff officer of the Continental lines.

Other fiction:

SAINT SEES IT THROUGH, Charteris; UNHAPPY RENDEZVOUS, Nash; LADY WITH A PARASOL, Corbett; WALL BETWEEN, Barber; MISTRESS MASHAM'S REPOSE, White.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

PAGE SIX — MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1946

Newest version of Tom Marshall's famous remark is: "What this country needs is a good $5,000 house."

Observation: Woman at meat counter asking the price of a slice of ham and, upon being told, walking away, with the remark: "That's all I wanted to know."

There's some talk of the incoming congress re-opening the Pearl Harbor investigation, but there's a quite general impression that several other things need doing first.

Downtown Mansfield Is 'Perking Up'

MANSFIELD'S central business section is now in a transition stage which evidences confident anticipation of a bright future for this city and community. Not within twenty years has Mansfield's downtown business area experienced so much new building, remodeling and improvement work as is now going on—with more in prospect.

As always, such a wave of modernization and brightening up of appearance, sets a pattern for owners or tenants of other buildings, the shabbiness of which becomes more noticeable in contrast with spic and span places of business on the same street.

It is getting to the point at which even so small a matter as a neglected store sign, which has gone through the years without repainting or replacement, tends to strike a discordant note among brighter surroundings.

Then, too, as new buildings are completed and remodeling finished, with clean-up of temporary sidewalk obstructions, there will be greater incentive to avoid littering sidewalks and streets with discarded paper wrappings, and the like. This will present the problem of providing conveniently located and neat-appearing containers for street rubbish—and re-education of children and adults who have become accustomed to tossing empty sacks, cigaret wrappers and paper fragments on sidewalk or street.

Many cities pride themselves on the cleanliness of their streets. There is no reason why Mansfield should not pay more attention to this phase of civic appearance—and NOW is an excellent time to make a start along that line.

Communist Minority Active In CIO

WITH THE NOMINATING committee of Local 711, United Electrical Workers (CIO), scheduled to meet soon to pick candidates for office in the local union it seems timely to call attention to a statement of the national union's Committee for Democratic Action.

This committee met last August. Delegates represented 10 of the union's 11 districts. Chairman was Harry Block, secretary of the CIO state council of Pennsylvania and a national vice president. The committee adopted the following "Statement of Principles":

"A Communist minority has seized control of our national office, our national executive board, our paid staff, our newspaper and some district councils and locals.

"The posons responsible for these conditions are infinitely disproportionate to the whole membership. Yet they create conditions which affect adversely not only the welfare of our union (Electrical Workers) and of the CIO but also the welfare of our American government.

"In their effort to make the Electrical Workers a vehicle to advance the foreign policy of the Soviet Union, these persons are creating new and growing obstacles to understanding between our people and the Russian people."

With this word of warning from leaders in their own union it is certainly important that members of Local 711 examine closely their own leadership to determine whether or not thousands of good Mansfield citizens and honest workers are being led by any part of this "Communist minority which has seized control."

It is also noteworthy that the national CIO convention scheduled to meet Monday in Atlantic City is faced with the same problem of what to do with left-wingers who are rapidly undermining the cause of organized labor in the United States.

Mesabi's Shrinking Iron Ore Supply

EVEN before the war years brought their huge requirements for iron and steel, men in that industry were discussing the problem of the approaching end of the supply of ore in the Mesabi Range.

The war demand led to extensive new developments in Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia, but the Lake Superior district still furnished between 80 and 90 per cent of the iron ore used in this country. E. W. Davis, director of the Minnesota mines experiment station, in a speech before the Association of Iron and Steel Engineers, gives the rich ore of the Minnesota ranges only about 15 more years to go.

Davis says that this district's salvation lies in the development of a new industry to extract ore from taconite rock, which is present in huge quantities in the Mesabi. This product will be superior in some ways to the ore now being mined, but may be more expensive.

If this development is successful, it will mean that the upper lakes region will retain its importance in the industrial set-up, instead of declining to the ghost-town status of the worked-out gold mining regions of the West.

Careless Parking Causes Accidents

PARKING is generally thought a harmless activity, even if sometimes hard to accomplish. This view does not face the facts, says Charles De Leuw, a traffic expert, writing in Public Safety Magazine. Studies in Chicago revealed, says Mr. De Leuw, that cars parked or about to park caused from 17 to 21 per cent of all accidents on business streets. In addition there must have been many accidents which parked cars caused without becoming directly involved.

Cities are scrutinizing more and more sharply the privilege of parking on main downtown thoroughfares. Some have forbidden it altogether, and merchants who originally objected to the ban have found that, in the long run, their business did not suffer.

An item tells of an amusement concession employe who has been taking up tickets on a merry-go-round for 26 years—with the comment that he has been going around for a long time without getting anywhere.

Word comes that a rat three feet long has been captured in Japan—which goes to show that rats should be exterminated while small, rather than being permitted to grow to full size.

It is reveald that two musical shows in the past season cost their backers $300,000 apiece—and thus does "the redistribution of wealth" go merrily on.

Eventual Showdown With Lewis, Mine Boss, Predicted By Pearson

(Note—Today, Drew Pearson awards the Brass Ring, good for one free—and in this case very rough—ride on the Washington Merry-Go-Round to John L. Lewis.)

WASHINGTON — Franklin D. Roosevelt did many magnificent things for the American working man, but he handed labor and the American people one lemon that he regretted to his dying day.

That lemon was John L. Lewis.

Roosevelt can't be credited with all the miseries which the mine labor boss has visited on the American people; but there is no doubt that the Roosevelt administration was chiefly responsible for building Lewis into the all-powerful figure he is today.

What few realize is that Lewis was a broken man, trying to hold together an almost bankrupt organization before the advent of the New Deal.

From a once-powerful union boasting more than 400,000 members after World War I, the United Mine Workers had dwindled to 90,000 members and its books showed a treasury balance of only around $50,000. And in 1932, approximately 72 per cent of the nation's bituminous coal was being mined by non-union labor working for starvation wages.

Today, in contrast, the United Mine Workers' treasury has about $75,000,000, with $7,000,000 received for the welfare fund in six brief months alone. Today, miners are paid better than ever in history, have purchased the fashionable old University club here to use as John L. Lewis' headquarters, plus an office building across the street; while John L. himself lives in a beautiful Virginia mansion, draws a $25,000 salary and sports a swank chauffeured limousine.

Lewis vs. USA.

Today John L. Lewis, in the full flush of power and glory, is demanding that the American people, faced with a cold winter and few coal reserves, knuckle under.

Lewis may get what he wants this time—thanks to his friend John Steelman in the White House. But sooner or later the showdown has got to come. A continued surrender to the insatiable greed of one man is something the American people will not long tolerate.

In order that they may know the man with whom they eventually must come to grips, here is a quick look at the life of the labor leader about whom Huey Long once said: "Old Huey thinks this John L. Lewis will be the most powerful man in the USA—unless I get there first."

Most people have the idea that John L. Lewis worked his way up as a coal miner. Real fact, however, is that John was never in the mines to any great extent.

His father was a coal miner, but John was an organizer, a talker and a union delegate. He never raised many calouses digging coal.

No matter what you may think of Lewis, however, his life reads like a Horatio Alger story. Born in Iowa, never attending school beyond the seventh grade, Lewis ran a debating society, managed a baseball team, wandered around the country doing odd jobs, including some coal mining. But chiefly he concentrated on public speaking, and before long had talked himself into a delegate's job with the United Mine Workers.

Thereafter he became a statistician for the Union, joined the inner clique of bureaucrats inside union headquarters and rose to power along with Bill Green as a good speaker and wire-puller within the miner's bureaucracy.

Lewis' Hitlerian Methods.

Up until that time there had been a certain amount of democratic freedom inside the union. Lewis was not immediately the iron-fisted ruler he is today. His first ruthless tactics were tried out on John L. Lawson of Colorado and the incident nearly wrecked him.

Lawson was the first labor leader to force John D. Rockefeller, jr. to recognize a labor union—after Rockefeller had proclaimed that the House of Rockefeller never would bargain with wage-earners.

This was in the pioneer days, when Wall Street settled its labor troubles with armed killers. During this dispute, Lawson was indicted on a trumped-up charge of murder, and was defended by Sen. Ed Costigan of Colorado.

In the very middle of the trial, Lewis fired Lawson from the union—an act which many miners interpreted as a Lewis deal with Wall Street. Immediately Lawson became a hero. He became even more of a hero when Lewis would not let him go back to work with a pick and shovel. He was even barred as a common laborer.

For his treatment of Lawson, Lewis won the undying hatred of "Mother Jones," the "grand old lady of labor" to whom Rockefeller eventually apologized for his ruthless treatment of Colorado labor.

Even as late as 1930, Mother Jones, then 100 years old, gave $1,000 of her meagre funds to the anti-Lewis campaign inside the United Mine Workers. Her last public words were: "I only hope I may live long enough to see John L. Lewis licked."

When a coal miner dared speak out against Lewis in union meetings in those days, his remarks were expunged from the minutes, and locals were ordered to expel anti-Lewis members on the threat of having their charters revoked. And during 1926-1928, Lewis and Bill Green actually revoked the charters of 42 locals which refused to expel anti-Lewisites.

Adolf Hitler was then just beginning his budding Brown Shirt movement; so Lewis could not have adopted his tactics from him. Whether Hitler, in turn, learned from Lewis is Hitler's story.

White House Friend.

One year after the last war—Nov. 1, 1919—John L. Lewis pulled a strike somewhat similar to his tactics after this war. Just as one nation was trying to pull itself back to a peacetime basis, Lewis yanked 400,000 miners out of the pits.

But Woodrow Wilson acted with forthright decision. Calling it an "unjustifiable" and "unlawful" strike, Wilson secured an injunction against the miners, whereupon the blustering miners' boss backed down.

"We cannot fight the government," he declared and ordered his men back to work.

Today, however, Lewis knows that when he goes into a showdown with the government, he is negotiating with loaded dice and a cold deck.

One of his best friends, War Reconverter John Steelman, sits at the right hand of the president. So at the end of every coal crisis, according to some cabinet members, beaming John Steelman stands with outstretched arms, ready to welcome Lewis with a favorable contract.

Other labor leaders claim that Steelman never has been known to let Lewis down. Once John L. gets his dispute to the White House, he can always count on his friend. After Steelman is finished all Lewis has to do is pick up his marbles, spit in the public eye, and strut home.

(Note—Another Drew Pearson column on John L. Lewis, most powerful figure in public life, will follow shortly.)

Grandmother's Day.

A club of grandmothers meeting in Chicago has resolved to ask Congress to designate the first Sunday in October as Grandmother's Day, and as one with a weakness for grandmothers our best hopes are with them. Our feeling in this does not extend to Days and Weeks in general, too many of which are hooked up with an obvious sales gimmick of one kind or another. But we don't believe the grandmothers want to sell us anything. Those we have known were more intent on giving, of their warmth, their wisdom, and their love.

The child is fortunate who has available a grandmother or two and is thus afforded an atmosphere of stability and connection with the past, along with an abiding affection and, above all, a willing listener to the many tribulations of the young.—Detroit News.

Problems Confront Washington Newsmen.

WASHINGTON — When voters ordered the changing of the capital guard election day, the resultant waves of consternation spread far beyond the ranks of legislators, politicians and federal workers in Washington.

It even created quite a scramble among the capital scribes.

And, for perhaps the first time in a generation, a green reporter fresh from the grass roots country is in just about as good a position at the starting post as the most veteran Washington correspondent!

Of course, as the months go by, experience will re-assert itself and the boys with the background probably will move out in front. But they're not necessarily going to be there at the beginning.

As in most places, there are many ways in which newspapermen cover the capital city circuit. Most common among the hard-working headline hunters is the regular beat—a certain territory or group of offices covered daily by the same guy or guys.

For years, the old-timers have had the big advantage. Take Capitol Hill, for instance.

Most of the news sources of importance in the halls of congress obviously grew out of Democratic contacts — either legislators or their employes. Not that the Republicans were ignored, understand, but since the Democrats were in control of the various committees and legislative activities, they naturally were most likely to know what was going to happen.

So naturally, a good newspaperman would carefully cultivate such sources. The veteran capital correspondent knew every one of them, usually by his or her first name. The newcomer had to stumble around and discover those things for himself—as well as establish the confidence of the contacts once he'd made them.

But when the 80th congress convenes, most of those Democratic contacts will be missing or out of control, hence not nearly so important as news sources.

And when it comes to making new contacts among the Republican leaders, the old and the new reporters will be scrambling from scratch together!

A few veteran capital correspondents who have been a bit indiscreet in their open courting of Democratic congressmen will find themselves worse off than even the new Washington reporters—for some Republicans who have writhed three terms and more as wall-flowers have memories as long as the animal emblem of their party.

Most of the boys, however, were too smart ever to snub the minority party, and some, looking to the future, courted the GOP gang quietly on the side while getting most of their news elsewhere.

What happens on the various beats will happen in the other methods of gathering news about town. In fact, it already is happening.

The party type of reporter—the dine-'em-and-wine-'em kind of big-time operator—finds himself in even worse shape. In order to get the inside dope from the inside dopes, so to speak, he ladled out victuals and vintages to the boys in control.

Those who somehow never were invited to his shindigs still remember. Oh, they'll accept his new crop of invitations some day, but only after playing coy a while.

The same situation stands for the telephone expert who knew so many of the top men that five minutes in the phone booth could get him more information than his less-lucky contemporaries could collect in hours on the run.

Now, he might as well throw his old book away and start collecting new telephone numbers.

Fortunately, there are few of the last two types of newsmen, since the majority of the Washington reporters are hard-working characters.

Figureheads Speak Views of Majorities.

WASHINGTON—Green's "Short History of the English People"—which wasn't so short at that—was a delight of many boyhood hours. There marched before us in elegant prose the grand procession of British royalty, but always with an undertone of social significance, so that you could feel the people in the night, beyond the window.

But John Richard Green has let our generation down. He did not prepare us for what happened in London this week—

A British king announcing to parliament further steps in the socialization of England.

It was an irony that Mr. Green never foresaw from his quiet study, as well as he knew his history.

We, of course, know about these things these days. We know the king is but a figurehead. We know that the cabinet of the Labor government wrote his speech. We are up on these things. All he did was to stand up and read it.

Mr. Green would have felt natural, and pleased, to see all the ceremony that came first, just as it was in his day and for so many centuries before that. But when the king finally opened his mouth, it would have been too much for poor Mr. Green.

Winston Churchill said once that he never intended to preside over the liquidation of the British empire. Nor perhaps did he, nor the young king, except a few years ago to sit by for the liquidation of British capitalism. But here it is. Mr. Churchill can do nothing and all the king can do is to announce the surrender written by somebody else.

So much of history is now ghost-written. The king's speech was the work of ghost writers. So, too, was President Truman's statement here the day before. The skillful hand of Charlie Ross was detected there. But there were unseen ghost writers for Mr. Truman's statement, too—those of the Republican party now triumphant in congress. Mr. Ross was only the medium.

An English king announces further steps in his country's turn to the left. An American president in the progressive tradition announces his capitulation in our turn to the right. Neither is his own master. Neither speaks for himself. Both are captives—the captive of Buckingham and Windsor and the captive in the White House.

George VI announced the nationalization of England's electric utilities and her inland transport system, and he also announced the continuation of wage and price controls.

Our captive president, speaking with the apparent voice of a majority in the election, decreed the end of wage and price controls. And he knows, without announcing it, that our mild gestures toward public partnership in our electric utilities undoubtedly will be slowed down. We had only made a start.

So England keeps turning left, and we switch to the right; how sharply, we must wait to see.

It will be interesting to see, philosophically speaking, how long before the ghost-writers will change the words for whoever sits in the seat of power.

It might develop that President Truman, when he slipped in that phrase "a progressive concept of government," was speaking, in the long range, for more people than turned out to give his party a hand in the election.

It's too bad John Richard Green isn't around. He had a sense of social significance so that you could feel the people in the night, beyond the window.

TVA Sets Pattern for Localized Authority.

WASHINGTON—If the speeches made during the late campaign on the theme of restoring local government were laid end to end, they would undoubtedly circle the solar system. When the oratory in the incoming Republican congress begins, we will hear a lot more on this same subject.

It brings to mind Mark Twain's comment about the weather. Everybody talks about, but nobody does anything about it. Few orators ever venture to tell us how to cure the spreading evil of centralization.

That is what gives point to a speech made in Philadelphia by David E. Lilienthal. It was Lilienthal's hail and farewell as chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority, a post he has now given up to become chairman of this country's atomic energy commission.

Speaking before the National Municipal League, Lilienthal denied that "big government" in Washington is inevitable. He pointed to the pattern employed under TVA to show that there is another way.

Under TVA, congress set the national policy. The act creating the vast experiment in the Tennessee valley provided for flood control, the restoration of soil, navigation and the sale of electric power. But in carrying out the mandate from congress, TVA used local agencies of government.

"The TVA," Lilienthal said, "has by persistent effort delegated and thereby decentralized its functions so that most of them are carried out not by federal employes at all, but by local and state personnel. This is effected by scores of contracts setting up joint partnership between TVA and cities, towns, counties, state boards of health, state conservation commissions, city power boards, farmers, cooperatives, county extension services, state agricultural colleges, state geology departments — I could continue this list almost indefinitely."

In private utility systems, as Lilienthal pointed out, one company customarily generates, transmits and distributes electricity. In the Tennessee valley, the TVA, a central agency, operates the generating plants and 6,000 miles of transmission lines that carry electricity over an area as large as Great Britain. But the power is distributed by 140 locally managed, locally financed distribution agencies.

This, in Lilienthal's view, is a distinction of major importance. Congress must and should determine national policy in a particular field. This does not mean, however, that administration of that policy must be on a nationwide or centralized basis.

Since the TVA has turned responsibility over to local administration, states in the area have developed new resources for planning and development.

In Tennessee and Alabama, the number of local planning commissions increased from two in 1935 to 35 in 1946. These commissions are helping people in the two states to take the utmost advantage of the new lakes and the recreation areas created by TVA. A rapidly developing tourist trade has grown up around these assets.

Here is an example for the Republicans to follow if they really want to decentralize government. It is a practical way to reach the goal that almost every one agrees is desirable.

The TVA is practical proof that you can pass administrative authority on to the community.

Farmer's Diary: "Top-'O-the-Morning."

I WONDER how many would enjoy the sight I looked upon this morning. I would like to say it is a secret, kept by the meadow brook, the old worm fence, and me. Just one look and for a moment I thought it couldn't be real, but when I opened my eyes, there it was before me.

It was a chilly morning. The sun had just peeped over the ridge and the east was decked out in long arching streamers of pink and trailing purple. Little clouds floated in a sky of gold. I warmed my hands and my face and my heart with the beauty and glow of the east.

A songsparrow thrilled from his frost-laden perch on a hazel—sang "top-o-the-morning" as the sun touched his modest brown coat. A crow flew by, on short sable wings, glanced at me there by the fence and winged far down into the swamp; a jay screamed in his royal blue and stood upon a polished boulder, some distance off, so that part of his color spilled off onto the surface. A flicker laughed, and his chips rained down like a shower upon the fallen leaves.

Cattle lowed on the neighboring farm, and geese were noisy about the barnyard. A young lad led out a prancing, whinnying colt. I wondered if the owner of that grassy nook knew what was there, and if his eyes had ever beheld what grew there so rare and so wild. A bloom may be as exciting to find, unexpectedly, as a perfect wild fruit that drops in the grass and is discovered, mellow for eating.

The cattle had cropped the late blue grass between aster and thistle until the sweet white roots were visible, but the stems of this flower were spared. The dozen or more that grew casually there were as fresh and thrifty as any wild plant growing out of the sod. The aster was common, its bloom rough, its odor bitter. The thistle stood frozen with gray tattered leaves like robes on a skeleton. But fresh and untouched by the elements—with sunlit frost crystals on its fine spun leaves and delicate head—the fringed gentians grew, a dozen or more.

That much of the secret I will tell. Out near a lonely back road with grass growing up the center and deep wagon ruts at the sides, sheltered by an old worm fence, watered by a meadow brook, grow these rare blue flowers, small patches of sky fringed and raveled by falling rain and the wind and the dew. Two upon a single stem—or only one. But the old worm fence, nor the sun that awakened them, nor the languid autumn brook that meandered by, nor I who gazed a precious instant of pure joy, will divulge the direction, the path, or the county in which they grew.

Jet Pilots Assault World Speed Records as Aircraft Show Opens

CLEVELAND —(U.P.)— Fresh assaults will be made on the world's air speed records today as army fighter pilots flying P-80 jet planes begin a series of five races against time in conjunction with the opening here of the national aircraft show.

Five P-80's will take off on successive days on an 820-mile course between Cleveland, Indianapolis, Evansville, Ind., Columbus and Cincinnati, Ohio in an effort to crack existing records. The finish line will be Cleveland.

Experts predict the AAF pilots may hang up even better times than made in the Bendix transcontinental race from California to the National Air races at Cleveland last fall.

Plans first called for the pilots to fly low and "buzz" the different cities on the course, but army officials said higher altitudes would have to be maintained to conserve gasoline for the long flights.

The first shooting star, "Miss Cleveland," will take off at 1:30 p. m. today, piloted by Maj. W. H. Moore. Shooting Stars named for the other cities on the course will take off at the same time the following four days.

10-Day Stand.

The huge aircraft show itself opens at noon for a 10-day stand in Cleveland's 50-acre bomber plant at the airport. For the first time in history all departments of American aviation have been combined in a two-and-a-half million dollar display open to the public.

The bomber plant, turned into a huge display case for the aviation industry, is one of the few buildings in the world large enough to house the tremendous assembly of planes and equipment.

Show officials, pointing out that the cost of dismantling and showing a B-29 at air exhibits last year was $50,000, said the money saved by not having this expense was put into elaborate sets and decorations. The bomber plants adjoin the airport with its mile-long runways, making it possible for the giant military and transport planes to be rolled through the 300-foot wide doors of the plant without removal of a single bolt.

The army, with 71,000 square feet of exhibition space, has transported 70 trailer-truck loads of equipment and planes to the show. Its exhibits include German and Japanese planes, a cutaway section of a B-29 with neon illuminated interior, the Republic P-84 jet fighter, and the famous Pacusan "Dreamboat" and its crew which recently flew nonstop from Hawaii to Egypt.

The navy will show its long-distance counterpart, the Truculent Turtle, which set a new world's record by flying from Perth, Australia, to Columbus, O.

The navy also will show for the first time its newest carrier-based jet fighter, the "Phantom."

The air lines, besides displaying their flight equipment, will fly in world-wide roundups of colorful goods from distant corners of the earth, and will show the products in the international bazaar.

The aircraft companies are fully represented, along with most of the country's equipment makers.

Glamour has not been neglected in the big show. There is a company-chosen "Miss" on hand to show off almost every piece of equipment. The rubber industry in Akron, O., is taking to the air literally to ship up "Miss Goodyear," "Miss Firestone," "Miss Goodrich," and "Miss General" by blimp.

Christmas Seals

. . . Your Protection Against Tuberculosis

New Health Seal's Symbol Of Growing Hope for Mankind

A cheerful lamplighter, symbolizing the emergence of new hope after the darkness of recent years, features the 1946 Christmas seal, which has been received at the offices of the Richland County Tuberculosis association.

Mrs. Margaret Adams, executive secretary of the organization, said today that 95 per cent of the money raised in this year's campaign will be used within the state for local and state-wide drives against tuberculosis. The quota for Richland county is $12,500.

The remaining five per cent will be forwarded to the National Tuberculosis association to support tuberculosis control on a national level.

Funds raised will be used in this area for such projects as 15 diagnostic chest clinics a year, general health education, school health program, movies, literature and a mass X-ray project.

This year's 40th annual sale will be conducted throughout the nation from Nov. 25 until Christmas. The lamplighter seal was designed by Lloyd Coe, of Cape Ann, Mass., from an idea submitted by Miss Mary Louise Estes, of Jacksonville, Fla.

The sale of seals was conceived by Miss Emily P. Bissell, of Wilmington, Del., who adopted the idea from a similar campaign in Denmark. In 1908 the campaign was conducted on a national scale, as it has been since that time.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, Nov. 16.

Conflict and opposition seem to hold over, possibly with business plans or agreements spreading to acrimonious or unhappy reactions on the intimate and domestic life. An element of enmity, jealousy or rash bursts of temper, might beget regrettable situations.

Those whose birthday it is have an unhappy prospect of antagonism, inharmony and conflict unless they carefully and amicably handle difficult and dangerous situations that might arise from jealousy, enmity, vindictive and offensive acts and speech, fanned by high tension of nerves and emotions. A calm and composed analysis of aggravating conditions might avert bitter regrets and possibly restore peace and progress. This in the domestic and emotional relations as well as business.

A child born on this day may have a quick temper, inciting to rash and unkind words and acts, to its detriment. Its temperament and emotions should be given early discipline.

Mrs. Janice Pollock (center), of Columbus, O., mother of four children, is crowned "Mrs. America" at Jackson, Miss. She won contest to select most beautiful married woman of the nation. Mrs. America's Resignation Not Final; May Decide to Keep Crown, $2,500

COLUMBUS, O.—(AP)—The "Mrs. America" crown weighed heavily on the Pollock household today.

It presented this problem:

Should Mrs. Janice Pollock, 24-year-old brunet beauty, retain the title and make a six-month tour of the country, or abdicate and stay at home with her husband and four children?

The husband, Salesman Marion S. Pollock, announced last night after his wife flew here from Jackson, Miss., where she won the honor and $2,500, that she would abdicate.

This morning, however, he said she might remain on the throne after all. Burt Titcomb, manager of the contest in which Mrs. Pollock was chosen, also flew here from Jackson and planned to go into a huddle with the Pollocks. He expressed confidence that Mrs. Pollock would remain "Mrs. America."

Earlier, Husband Pollock had taken this position:

"I'm proud that she won the title, but I'm prouder that she gave it up for the kids," Pollock said of his wife.

The two older of the kids, Susan, 6, and Tommy, 5, were with their dad at the airport to greet the "queen of housewives," while Mark, 2, and Bobby, ten months, slept.

"Janice decided it was far more important to stay here and be a mother to the children than any amount of glory or money from the contest," Pollock told a reporter. When she thought it over, he added, she agreed "six months is quite a chunk out of the lives of four little kids under six years old."

In Jackson sponsors of the contest, in which Mrs. Pollock was chosen the most beautiful married woman of the nation over 19 other contestants from 10 states, offered to provide a nurse and stewardess for a private plane trip for the entire Pollock family.

Pollock said it was "preposterous to think of taking four little children on such a plane trip."

Pollock said his wife was sorry for inconveniencing the contest promoters, but would let the title go to an alternate. Mrs. Fredda Acker of Anderson, S. C., placed second in the contest.

Contest Manager Burt Titcomb said in Jackson: "Mrs. America has never relinquished her title to me in any way."

The decision to abdicate her newly won title was "spontaneous" and made by Mrs. Pollock while she was in Jackson.

Her decision, he said, was telephoned to him early yesterday, and Mrs. America cut short her original plans to stay in Jackson for several days.

Mrs. Pollock said she entered the contest to realize an ambition to save $1,000. "Every time I and my husband neared the goal; another baby came or something happened that took the money," she explained.

Mrs. Pollock is five feet, six and a half inches tall, weighs 126 pounds, measures 25½ inches at the waist, 34½ at the bust and 35½ at the hips. Her eyes and hair are brown.

FIFTH DEGREE WORK FEATURES GRANGE MEET

Crawford County Group Seeks End of Rationing.

TIRO—When the Crawford county Pomona Grange met at Sulphur Springs school this week, the fifth degree of the grange ritual was exemplified by the Erie county Pomona Grange degree team. Several important coming grange events were announced and two resolutions were adopted calling for an end of rationing of sugar and rice, and the removal of rent controls.

Reports were made by grange officials indicating successful activities of the organization during the year. Mrs. Ellen Kightlinger, new Crawford county Home Demonstration agent, was introduced and discussed 4-H club work.

The main event of the evening was the fifth degree work, which the Erie county team will present at the Ohio State Grange convention in Columbus.

The resolutions calling for an end to rationing of sugar and rice, and removal of rent control were introduced by H. G. McMichael, master of the North Robinson Grange, who said they were adopted by the North Robinson Grange Monday night.

The resolutions were referred to the resolutions committee by Pomona Master Mrs. Floyd Kreps of Leesville and reported to the floor by L. P. Auck, chairman of the committee. Thayer Brown of Whetstone Grange moved adoption and Wilson Crum of Edgewood seconded the motion.

Announcements were made of coming grange events including the county grange play party at Tiro Friday, Nov. 22 with Auburn Grange entertaining; and a youth meeting at Leesville Grange hall Wednesday night, Nov. 20 to form a youth installation team.

The Ohio State Grange convention this month in Columbus was discussed and the County Grange Deputy James B. Krauter announced that Mrs. Annabelle Price of North Robinson and E. P. Fauser of Whetstone will represent Crawford county. The alternates will be Geraldine McMichael of North Robinson and Clarice Shearer of Whetstone.

Perry Warden, county business and insurance agent, announced that a total of $5,231 in business in the co-operative department had been handled by the county granges from Jan. 1, 1946 to Sept. 1, 1946.

Mrs. Harry Kurtz, county grange matron, Whetstone, reported on the activities of the home economics department. A total of $2,282.59 was raised by the granges in all charitable projects including the Red Cross, student loan fund, etc. The home economics departments reported a total earning of $1,303.87 for the year.

Mrs. Ellen Kightlinger, Galion, discussed the work of the county demonstration agent and the 4-H clubs in particular. She listed club activities as designed to teach; citizenship, democratic procedure, good sportsmanship, good health, and development of worthwhile projects. Mrs. Kightlinger stated that last week during national 4-H club achievement week 75,000 clubs in the U. S. with one and one half million members were active. Crawford county has 22 clubs. A campaign is now getting underway in Crawford county for a $200,000 4-H club endowment fund the income from which is to be used in promoting 4-H club activities.

TEACHERS PAY RAISES SLATED

ASHLAND — Ashland teachers and school employes are scheduled for salary raises, according to the city board of education, with teachers to receive $200 a year increases and non-teaching employes slated for ten per cent increases if they are not already receiving maximum salaries.

Approval by voters of the school operating levy Nov. 5 is credited with the salary increases. The new salaries will begin January 1, 1947 at which time the additional funds will be available.

Board members announced that the immediate raises are to assist school employes in meeting the rising costs of living, with other salary revisions depending upon action of the Ohio general assembly at its January session.

It was also announced that elementary school children are canvassing all homes of the city offering to tie up papers and magazines for the forthcoming paper drive scheduled for November 21.

Bundles of papers are to be placed on curbstones unless there is rain in which case they are to be placed on porches, it was announced today.

U. S. Atom Bomb Control Means 10-Year Peace, Churchill Says

ASHLAND—The atomic bomb in the hands of the United States alone is good for a ten-year period of peace if its secrets are not divulged to any other nation, especially Russia, Randolph Churchill, journalist, traveler and son of the war-time English prime minister, told an Ashland audience at McDowell auditorium Wednesday night.

Speaking on the Ashland college concert-lecture series, Churchill stressed need of unification of the western world to provide such power that Russia will never attempt to wage a war. He suggested a union of Great Britain, United States and all the western European nations west of what he termed the "iron curtain."

The lecturer deplored the present UN conference as a farce and a tragedy providing little hope for a lasting or even temporary remedies for a suffering world. He placed himself in accord with Senator Taft in deploring the Nuremburg trials, stating that the men hanged were punished for losing the war rather than for starting it. He termed the action as "barbaric."

Othman On Anything

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— A fat lady in a muskrat coat was so excited over the prospect that she fell flat on her face by the fishless fishpond.

Two other ladies at the top of the white marble stairs were so flustered they opened the wrong door and came within a hair of walking in on President and Mrs. Truman at lunch.

Yes sir, the war really was over. The White House was open again after five years and we tourists gawked at the whisky bottle (empty) that Harold Ickes gave President Roosevelt, skidded on the slippery parquetry in the East room, and put Mrs. Truman down as an almost perfect (almost, I said) housewife.

PEGLER

Due to unavoidable circumstances, Pegler's column is not available for publication today.

A sympathetic cop hauled the fat lady to her feet and brushed her off. A bareheaded secret service agent at the door said certainly, take your cameras inside, but please don't snap any pictures.

Another agent upstairs gave the blundering ladies a polite (and almost apologetic) bounce from the presidential living quarters and—I hope I don't sound school-girlish—it was all kind of wonderful. No bars. No steel cables. No burglar alarms. No grim-faced cops. And if the bomb-proof shelter with the armor-plate ceiling far below still hadn't been filled with busted crockery and old coffee pots, at least there was no indication that it ever had been dug.

THE TOURISTS, hundreds of us, doffed our hats in the reception hall to the east wing, hurried down the corridor, and up the stairs to the grand ballroom so we could make up our minds about Mrs. Truman as a housekeeper.

"Rayon," sniffed a lady, fingering the fresh red satin drapes with the six-inch tassels. She poked through the venetian blinds and observed that the windows could have been a little cleaner. Maybe so, but as a mere man I claim Mrs. Truman has done all right; a housewife with a place as big as this one can't keep the whole works polished all the time.

The East room was all we garden-variety tourists could visit on the main floor. Downstairs was a number of parlors, libraries, and a display of presidential chinaware. Here was that empty whisky bottle from Honest Harold. The sign said it was recovered from the British frigate, Charm, sunk in a certain Revolutionary war a long time ago. And I don't know when I've spent a pleasanter morning or seen the sun shine brighter on the whitest house in these parts.

LANDMARK GOES AS 'OLD 1876' GETS NEW FACE

Loan Company Gives Way to Modern Trend.

Another Mansfield landmark, the old-fashioned store front of the Mansfield Building and Loan association on North Main street, has passed on.

The ancient front, with its familiar gold-lettered slogan, "Old 1876," was torn out a few days ago, and today workmen are constructing the framework for a new, modern facade of plate glass, terra cotta and a bronze door.

However, the firm, while partially giving way to the modern trend of modernization, won't give up its well-known name. The new front will retain—though in modern-style lettering —the slogan, "Old 1876."

Named for Founding Date.

The name, of course, was adopted in recognition of the date of the firm's founding. And although the front will be modern, the company's interior still will retain an air of the 19th century.

Elaborate cast iron grills surround the cashier's cages, and the interior of the offices is dark and musty. A gas fireplace heats the front office.

Kenneth Dirlam, assistant secretary, said the company had been planning a new front for several years, but had been forced to postpone the remodelling because of the war

Delayed by Shortage.

Shortages still may delay completion of the project, he said, because delivery of a massive bronze door may not be made for two or three months."

Dirlam said the firm later may remodel the interior of the offices also, but that depended on how soon building materials will be available.

The company was founded 70 years ago, but has been in its present quarters for little more than 15 years. Dirlam's father, H. B. Dirlam, now is more than 90 years old, but still is active and retains the title of secretary of the association.

Her costume signifies "The Rocket," a part she portrays in the daily pageant. Miss Hood is a law student at Western Reserve. (For further details on air show, see page 7.)—(AP wirephoto)

Kiwanis Club Hears Story Of Jack and Heintz Industry

Kiwanis club members listened intently yesterday as Harry Coopland, special representative of Jack and Heintz, Inc., spoke on "the house of the Golden Rule."

Addressing the club at a luncheon meeting at the Mansfield-Leland hotel, on the theme "Seeing is Believing," Coopland related how as an employe of the War Production board during the last 18 months of the war, he had made an inspection of the Jack and Heintz plants in Cleveland.

"I wanted to see if it were possible in a factory to live up to the Golden Rule 'Do Unto Others as You Would Have Them Do Unto You,' and still live up to war-time contracts," Coopland said. "The answer is definitely and emphatically 'yes!'"

Coopland described his tour through the plant at a time when the war was at its height and man-power at its lowest ebb. "Yet I saw 40,000 applications for jobs of those who wanted to work at the plant of the Golden Rule," he said.

Illustrations of the Golden Rule in practice were cited by Coopland. "There were no time clocks to be punched, and yet no one is ever late. The president was 'Bill' to everyone of the 9,000 employes at the plant."

"There were 12 'ambassadors of good will' who circulated about the plant to discover the home conditions of each employe," Coopland continued. "The words absenteeism and strike were unknown there."

Anticipating the question of how such a system worked under unionization, Coopland said, "Bill was a union organizer at one time. As such he was an advocate of higher pay and 100 per cent unionism. He still is. He wants his associates— they never speak of employes there—to be better off than they could possibly be anywhere else."

Benefits to the company from this plan Coopland said were, "a loyalty you can't buy, a full and free exchange of confidence, and the saving of hundreds of thousands of man hours as the result of free dental and medical service.

"We have relieved our employes of the four fears—"of poverty, by good pay; death, by free insurance; ill health, by a free health clinic, and injustice, by leadership," Coopland concluded.

Clyde Smaltz was program chairman.

Nobel Literature Award Puts German Writer In Limelight

STOCKHOLM —(AP)— Committees here and Oslo awarded the 1946 Nobel peace prize and the prize for achievements in the science of physics to three Americans today and thrust a virtually unknown German-born writer into the limelight with the award of the $34,000 literary prize.

The Nobel peace prize committee in Oslo announced that the peace award of $34,000 would be divided this year by Emily Greene Balch of Boston, 79, internationally known economist, and Dr. John R. Mott, famous 81-year-old evangelist.

The Swedish Academy of Science named Dr. Perry Williams Bridgman of Harvard University as the winner of the physics award for his invention of apparatus producing extremely high pressures and for studies "within the sphere of high pressure physics."

Hermann Hesse, 69-year-old former theological student and bookseller's assistant, was chosen for the literary award.

The novels, poems and essays of Hesse, a Swiss citizen, are not widely known in popular literary circles, and the Stockholm newspaper Aftontidningen today criticised the award as "inscrutable" and declared the writer was too obscure to receive "such a high literary distinction."

Persons who are extensive readers were well acquainted with him, however, and last night in a broadcast Dr. Anders Oesterling, secretary of the Swedish Academy, praised him as "one of those who first eluded German suppression of a free opinion."

Another literary source here said Hesse ranked with Thomas Mann as "the greatest contemporary German author."

Hesse's first novel, "Peter Camenzind," was published in 1904. Only two of his books, "Der Steppenwolf" and "Death and the Lover," have been translated into English.

Director August Schou of the Nobel Institute in Oslo, in announcing the winners of the Nobel peace prize, said no official reason would be given why Miss Balch and Mott had been chosen from among 11 official candidates.

Dr. John R. Mott, whose offices are in New York City and home is in Orlando, Fla., has devoted his life to the spreading of Christian doctrine throughout the world.

As president of the World Alliance of Young Men's Christian Associations he went to Germany in February of this year to help German Y. M. C. A. organizations battle against the rising tide of juvenile delinquency. During the first World War he directed the entire war work of the Y. M. C. A.

Emily Green Balch's home is in Wellesley, Mass. Her life work as an economist interested in international matters has carried her to Europe on many occasions. One of her early missions abroad was connected with the Ford peace mission.

Prof. Wendell M. Stanley and Prof. John Howard Northrop, both of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research at Princeton university, shared one-half of the chemistry prize, and Prof. James Batcheller Sumner, of Cornell university took the other half.

TWO FLATS—

Deputy Sheriffs G. C. Humphrey and Harold Marvin weren't quite sure yesterday afternoon whether they were law enforcement officers or automobile repairmen. The pair took turns changing tires while the other guarded the prisoners.

PLANES ZOOM—

They'll take to the air tonight at 6:30 in the YMCA gym. The thud of pounding feet and bouncing basketballs will give way to the sound of whirring propellers as members and would-be members of the revived Frank Lahm Cadet Model Airplane club test their model plane making prowess in a flying contest. Although the contest is held indoors, there'll be plenty of thrills as the planes zoom toward the "ceiling" which will prevent any extra-ambitious flights within bounds.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— A $275,000 addition to the Mary Rutan hospital at Bellefontaine was approved by the Civilian Production administration yesterday.

STRATEGISTS PLANNING TO BLOCK SOLON

Mississippi's Senator Faces Possibility of Ouster By Majority Vote.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Republicans stepped up their interest in two committee probes today as an organized GOP move to scuttle Senator Bilbo (D., Miss.) took shape.

It was learned that the senate Republican steering committee laid plans to block Bilbo from resuming his seat by a procedure that would take only a majority vote instead of two-thirds of the senate to block him.

Figuring in the plan are reports of investigations presently being made by the war investigating committee and the special campaign investigating committee.

According to the strategy laid before the Republican steering committee, Bilbo—who will be second as the new and just-re-elected senators appear alphabetically to take oaths of office—will be asked to step aside.

The test might come at that point—but the Republicans hope it won't, for only one, Raymond E. Baldwin of Connecticut, of the new or re-elected senators will have been sworn in and be eligible to vote.

If the request that Bilbo step aside is challenged by his friends, the issue will be decided by a simple majority vote. If that wins, a second majority vote after the rules committee reports would block his seating.

However, if the effort to have Bilbo step aside fails and he is sworn in, it would take a two-thirds majority to oust him.

A Republican senator who disclosed the organized move predicted "almost complete unanimity" among Republicans against allowing Bilbo to regain senate membership.

The pretext on which Bilbo will be asked to step aside probably will be an allegation that he failed to uphold the constitution in his previous term because of his attitude toward negro voting, the Republican senator said.

Under the streamlining plan, the challenge, if upheld on the floor, would go to the rules committee.

The Republican said results of the Kilgore committee and special campaign investigating committee investigations would be ready for use against Bilbo.

A preliminary report to the campaign committee, which is concerned only with this year's elections, is expected to be made Saturday by investigators who went to Mississippi.

Those investigators are said to have found that Bilbo, who was outspoken about "not wanting" the negro vote, had no part in the alleged depriving of the ballot to negroes in some voting precincts.

The Kilgore committee's probe goes into the charges brought by his primary opponent, Ross Collins, about his dealings with a war contractor in 1942.

Stubborn Farmer Hits Trail, Trees Coon Dog Thieves

CINCINNATI — (AP) — As Godfrey Daniel Potter, 75-year-old farmer of near Dana, Ind., says: "good coon dogs are mighty hard to get these days."

Then yesterday—the day before opening of coon and 'possum season in Indiana—his favorite black and tan hound valued at $200 "turned up missing."

Potter said he wasn't a "stickler" about petty thievery around his farm, west of Clinton near the Indiana-Illinois border, but when he learned his dog was gone he "got pretty mad."

He was "so mad" he trailed a car he believed to contain his dog "more than 250 miles," he estimated, to nearby Miamitown, where he identified his dog as one two men were attempting to sell for $250.

Woman Treated for Severe Hand Injury

Treated at General hospital today for a severe stab wound in her left hand, Madeline Richardson, 252½ North Main street, told police the injury was inflicted by another woman at the same address for whom she had been keeping house.

Miss Richardson said the stabbing grew out of an argument. She told police she didn't want to file charges, at least for the present. Police said a butcher knife inflicted the wound, severing an artery.
